

LinkDaddy® Rolls Out Domain Power Booster Service for Small Business Owners

LinkDaddy Domain Power Booster Service raises the domain authority of a business website, helping it rank higher on search engines like Google and Bing.

UNITED STATES, May 10, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Boosting the domain authority of a website is among the biggest challenges for SEO specialists, and it gets harder when the business website has restricted content, graphics, outreach capability, social presence, and the big dollars to spend. Smaller businesses usually have a basic website that struggles to find a place in the upper hierarchy of the search engine results. To address such challenges, LinkDaddy has come up with an ethical & effective, Domain Power Booster service that is typically suited for small business owners, with an aim to help their business websites engage more audiences, especially for local and nearby search results.

There is every chance that brand owners feel overwhelmed about tracking their website's domain authority [DA]. Consider this—even a global marketplace like Amazon.com does not get the perfect DA score of 100! Most businesses feel unsure about how DA affects their ranking on local searches, and there is even more confusion about the perfect DA score. Few people realize that the DA score is slightly subjective, it isn't possible to always maintain the ideal DA score for every keyword, and it is not put up by Google.

Domain Authority (DA) and Domain Rating (DR) are two very similar metrics where a higher score indicates a more credible, high-authority website. High DA-DR sites are clearly preferred by search engine algorithms. However, every website with a high DA or DR might not have exceptional content or exponentially high traffic but all high-DA & DR sites are most likely to have lots of high-authority domains linking back to them. The DA & DR scoring methods might be slightly different but across the global SEO industry they are synonymous with a higher search engine ranking potential of a site, and they are directly proportional to the health of a site's backlinking profile.

With this LinkDaddy gig, as a part of its end-to-end SEO solutions, businesses gain more online visibility via white hat SEO practices. The service helps brands increase their DA and DR by using a network of high-power websites that link back to the primary, business website.

A website's domain strength cannot be built as a one-time task. It needs constant effort and just using the most competed keywords or publishing high-quality content is not sufficient. When done consistently, the domain-boosting exercise makes search engine majors like Google understand that a particular domain is among the more authoritative resources in a particular business segment/industry/vertical—highly effective for bringing high-intent, relevant traffic to the website without depending on running expensive ad campaigns.

Unlike some digital marketing agencies that promise a sudden spike in the ranking performance by backlinking to spammy sites or link farms, LinkDaddy takes the higher road. This means investing real efforts in building an authentic backlinking profile that will uphold, boost, and raise the DA in the present and near future. Rather than acquiring bulk links from just about any referring domain, our team understands the market niche, and targeted audience, and uses this data to link up more trustworthy and contextual websites.

LinkDaddy constantly grooms its database of referring domains, ensuring the customer's business website gets a healthy backlink profile. This is an ongoing exercise where we constantly evaluate and identify portals for the quality and relevance of content. To put it simply, a business website gets highlighted as a more credible online resource, as LinkDaddy continues to build an ecosystem of authentic referring domains that link back, helping the website rank higher for selected keywords/high-intent search terms.

Expect the LinkDaddy team to work relentlessly, updating its link-building strategy since SEO trends can change very quickly. Businesses get the assurance of the latest link-building strategies, using industry best practices. There is another, big differentiator—LinkDaddy maintains one of the world's biggest niche blog networks that provides access to hundreds of relevant blogs, providing plenty of backlinking options from blogs for every industry and business category and with the promise of DoFollow links.

Business owners can collaborate with the LinkDaddy team for things beyond the sole scope of the DA-boosting project. For instance, the team can help site owners understand how the website needs to be nurtured with keyword-rich, optimized content. They can identify web pages with a poor backlinking score and provide clarity about issues such as how page authority is different from domain authority. Other areas of teamwork include analyzing the internal linking structure. At all times, customers get a detailed report to ensure transparency about the services promised and the results delivered.
