Blac Chyna Official Celebrity Boxing

Join us at the press conference to see the exciting match ups and the opponent for Blac Chyna will be announced.

Creator Damon Feldman offers his view, "People laughed at it years ago but now we have tons of celebrities lining up to participate because it is good natured entertaining fun and what our critics don't understand, is that a lot of opportunity can stem from this for the talent. Those few minutes in the ring may give celebrities the confidence to move forward in other parts of their life, gain a new gig or an endorsement which may change their life, we are the Dancing with the Stars of sports." Feldman said.

As for adding Blac Chyna to the fight, Damon adds, "Chyna has followed us for a while as a fan and even commentated for us before, this time we are excited she wants to fight to raise money for Pasadena Humane Society."

Damon Feldman and his business partner Rodney Burton believe in the redemptive nature of the promotion because fighting was what they sought during their low points in life. "From the origin of the circus or the sideshow, people can't turn away from this boxing spectacle and the participating celebs love it."

Growing on pay per view and showcasing to sold out crowds is another indicator that Official Celebrity Boxing is just beginning to touch its potential. With 22 fights under their belts, and more celebrity fighters about to be announced, tune in on June 11th.

Recently Feldman hosted a fight with AL B Sure and Hazel Roche, and last June, Feldman orchestrated a match between former NBA star Lamar Odom and 90's pop-star Aaron Carter. In past years, he setup matches featuring Coolio, Rodney King, Jose Canseco, "Octomon," and many others.
