

World-Class Musician Robert Boguslaw Shares Unique Behind-The-Scenes Stories of the White House in New Book

WASHINGTON, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, UNITED STATES, May 12, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- For those who ever wanted a glimpse inside a successful travelling musician's life, or have wondered what it's like to work for the US president, Author Robert Boguslaw provides readers a peek into both these worlds in his new book, Keys to the White House: And Other Stories of a Gig Warrior.

As a world-class pianist, Bob has played all over the world for rock fans, presidents, foreign leaders, as well as students and everyday music lovers. Readers journey with Bob to stages in Latin America with more than ten-thousand screaming fans to treaty signings to state dinners and presidential inaugurations.

"Bob presents a touching look at the scores of anonymous people that enriched his life, supported his music, and made his career possible. Bob's versatility as a musician is amazing and the Marines/White House were lucky to have such a high-caliber, dedicated player. His passion for music and life shine brightly throughout the book. From wild adventures with South American pop stars to elegant White House functions, Bob has forged a meaningful career. I was thrilled to read about his interactions with luminaries including Tony Bennett, Paul McCartney, Stevie Wonder, Herbie
