CompanionLink v10 for Outlook, Android, iPhone sync

to sync to their iPhone and iPad. CompanionLink's Outlook engine can gather data from any type of Outlook folder, POP3, IMAP and Exchange, and sync it quickly and easily to Apple's iCloud ecosystem. This system is an improvement to the folder replacement option, which requires you to use a particular folder in Outlook, or the method of publishing your iCloud calendar, which is not secure. CompanionLink supports Outlook 2007 and higher and can also sync from online forms of Outlook, including Outlook.Com, Office 365, and Microsoft Exchange.

Also, in CompanionLink v10 is updated 64-bit Outlook logic. This change recognizes that Outlook installs 64-bit by default, and so this is now handled as native for CompanionLink. Additionally, to ease some issues with Wi-Fi and Bluetooth sync, CompanionLink now uses Google's Firebase and FCM ID to assist in pairing your phone to your PC. Finally, v10 has new drivers for Microsoft Graph API drivers to ensure a more secure connection to Microsoft Teams, Exchange and other Microsoft Windows 11 and Office 365 platforms.
