This is the most important investment an investor should consider making. A small business owner has the unique opportunity to be an investor, and a member of the Beeotto Family of Small Businesses”

Robert M. Errato CEO

The Company's decision to utilize SEC's Crowd Funding Regulation to raise capital, as Bob Errato, Beeotto's CEO explains “The Company decided on that path to give small business owners, and small investors in general the opportunity to invest (like the big guys) in what Beeotto believes will be a great long-term investment. A small business owner has the unique opportunity to be an investor in our Company, and also become a member of the Beeotto Family of Small Businesses—a marketing alliance that will become a new American brand. This is the single most important investment an investor (of any size) should consider making.”

Most importantly, the Company is not your ordinary “Start Up”. Management's wealth of experience in operating a similar business (known as BThrifty) valued at over $18,000,000 after one year, and with 235% year over year growth, the Company's beta version of Beeotto LLC.

Beeotto's management knew from its experience that the single most valuable commodity every small business owner has is his or her time. With that in mind:

- They created a streamlined concept that's entirely new...Members-only, 3 subscription levels, and so simple it's plug-n-play. There is no learning curve.

- In a snap, members are on TV and streaming services—the two mediums they thought they could never afford.
