"Ethical conduct, based on our RISE (Respect, Integrity, Service, Excellence) values, is core to our success as an organization. Our RISE values guide our actions and behavior and builds trust among our people, clients, service providers and our communities," said Elizabeth Atlee, Chief Ethics & Compliance Officer. "This recognition tells us our approach to Ethics & Compliance is working and reinforces the value we bring to our business."

The Compliance Leader Verification process involves a rigorous review of an ethics and compliance program and corporate culture. It includes completing the Ethics Quotient® (EQ), a questionnaire covering the elements of an effective program; benchmarking program practices against the World's Most Ethical Companies®; and extensive document review and interviews with executives and stakeholders.

CBRE's performance was evaluated on six key areas: program resources and structure; perceptions of ethical culture; written standards; training and communication; risk assessment, monitoring and auditing; and enforcement, discipline, and incentives.
