The application of near-infrared (NIR) spectroscopy is one of the rising trends in the grain processing equipment market. TBRC's grain processing equipment market analysis shows that the NIR spectroscopy has huge potential for agricultural applications such as grain production, as it is used to measure protein levels and the equivalent nitrogen values in grains, and can also be used to manage plant health, detect diseases and monitor grain development. For example, in April 2021, BoMill AB, a Sweden-based machinery company installed its NIR-T technology grain
