Michael Minard, CEO and owner of Delta Media.

"Delta Pitch is more than a CMA builder; it's an entire presentation builder," Minard noted.

In September, Delta Media will roll out its new DeltaNET 7 platform that leverages automation and artificial intelligence to create "the most customizable, most automated all-in-one platform in the marketplace."

Minard notes that Delta Pitch "goes hand-in-hand with Delta's next generation of customizable, automated real estate technology coming this fall."

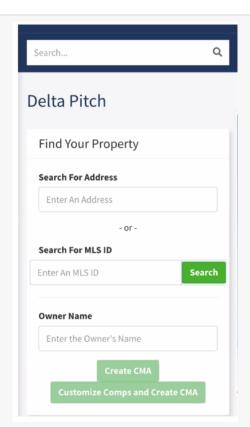

How Delta Pitch Works
To create a CMA with Delta Pitch, an agent enters the property address and clicks a link to build a professionally designed CMA. The CMA features white label brokerage branding with comps, recent pending sales, and more.

Built on top of Delta's new AI platform, it will provide all relevant properties and other important information presented in an interactive flipbook.

Delta Pitch also is integrated into Delta Media's AVM platform, creating a new lead generation opportunity. When consumers visit a Delta-powered website and enter a property address, they automatically get an estimate based on current listings in their area. In addition, the system automatically creates a digital CMA, comparable to a flipbook, that agents can then send to the consumer.

Other Delta Pitch features include:

- Customization of comps and templates
- Ability to add custom pages
- Automatically created flipbooks with annotations that agents can share with customers
