The Delvey Crimes

Anna Sorokin said, “This is a collection of sketches I've created while in ICE Orange County detention.”

“I wanted to capture some of the moments of the past years, both never-seen-before and iconic, using the limited tools I have at my disposal. Some of the pieces are straightforward, others are more abstract and will be unique in meaning and appearance to the observer.”

“You've heard so many voices already, but this is the beginning of me telling my story, my narrative, from my perspective.” ”

Early access to purchase Anna's art can be found at www.foundersartclub.com prior to the show. An interested party should add an email to sign up for this exclusive community. In addition, FAC and Anna will launch 10 limited edition print sets of all 21 pieces that come in custom packaging with the name of the show "Allegedly". The full sets will retail at $8,500.

In order to keep the entire solo collection together and increase its overall value, Founders Art Club has purchased the entire collection of works from Anna and instead of selling individual pieces of it, will be selling 48% ownership in the collection to strategic collectors, galleries, and investors. The total valuation of the collection is estimated at $500,000. The details around the available shares in the collection will be announced on the night of the show.

After the opening show, Founders Art Club will take the collection on a global tour and display it at prominent events and galleries across the globe to increase the value and ultimately look to put it on auction at a distinguished private sale or major auction house.
