The cladding systems market consists of sales of cladding systems and related services by entities (organizations, partnerships, and sole proprietors) that are used for constructing buildings. Cladding is a process where the exterior of a building is covered with panels of a different material. Cladding is primarily adapted in construction for its function like protecting the exterior and the frame of the building. Indirectly, cladding systems protect the interior of architectural construction.

The eco preferred cladding materials is one of the key cladding systems market trends gaining popularity. Companies in the cladding systems market are focusing on developing eco preferred cladding materials to expand the market share. Eco preferred cladding systems are increasingly being used as consumers are becoming more environmentally concerned. Timber cladding is one of the eco preferred cladding materials. The timber cladding is an effective sound and heat insulator and retains heat better than alternative common building materials such as concrete, aluminum, and steel. The heat insulator in timber cladding is key in ensuring a building is energy efficient. The timber cladding is a truly renewable organic resource and does not create any
