VANCOUVER, BC, CANADA, May 20, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- According to Emergen Research, the global autoinjectors market size was USD 45.89 Billion in 2020 and is expected to reach USD 170.16 Billion in 2028 and register a revenue CAGR of 17.7% during the forecast period, 2021-2028.

An autoinjector is a medical device that is used to deliver a specific medicine dose. Initially, the injectors were created to help people overcome their fear of using a needle-based medication delivery system on their own. There are many risks and challenges involved in administering an injection, both physical and psychological. But, the use of an auto-injector can provide numerous advantages to both the healthcare providers and users. It allows medication to be administered more quickly and with a better bioavailability as it delivers the medicine with a spray effect during administration.

Major prevalence of diabetes and anaphylaxis is one of the major factors boosting revenue growth of global autoinjectors market”
Emergen Research

Autoinjectors are widely used for rapid administration of drugs and antidotes for critical situations such as nerve agent poisoning, anaphylactic shock and allergic reactions, seizures, pain relief, and for a variety of diseases. Drug-filled autoinjector devices (AID) are the primary choice during such situations and play a crucial role in emergency and mass casualty management. Drugs are delivered slowly through the autoinjector devices across a large area in the muscle which in turn increases absorption of the drug and is therefore highly effective.
