“Green Boom is proud to welcome Tim as the newest member of our team,” Green Boom CEO and Co-Founder Sudhir Sharma said.

“Tim has an appreciation for our eco-conscious mission, and we look forward to watching him spread the word on our goal to sustainably combat oil-spills.”

Stewart was born in Sydney and schooled in Singapore and Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia. In 2006, he won the Australian Amateur and has since received titles at The Riversdale

Cup, The Singapore Amateur, The Tasmanian Open and was a runner-up finish in The British Amateur Championship. He is currently representing Druid Hills Golf and Country Club as one of its resident touring professionals.

“My passion for conservancy and protecting the environment links to my upbringing and career where I have seen the effects of plastics on our oceans,” Stewart said. “My goal is to highlight Green Boom's revolutionary products that impact the entire oil spill cleanup industry and pushes the industry to evolve as they gain exposure.”

Green Boom is the only 100 percent biodegradable line of oil-only absorbents suitable for large spill response, industrial and transportation MRO and safety spill kits. Made in the U.S., Green Boom’s patent-pending technology converts renewable, biodegradable and low-value agricultural materials into water-repellent, oil-only absorbents.
