Communities is proud to announce that all of its senior living communities in Pennsylvania have been recognized by U.S. News & World Report as being “Best” on the inaugural Best Senior Living Communities list. The top ranking of “Best” was obtained through scores received on a consumer satisfaction survey of residents and their family members or appointed representatives in the areas of community and activity, food and dining, caregiving, and management and staff.

“We are very proud that all of our campuses in Pennsylvania had buildings that qualified to be named “Best” by U.S. News & World Report. The data collected on meeting their rigorous criteria provides a clear picture of how outstanding the care and operations are at these properties,” said Lynne S. Katzmann, Founder and CEO, Juniper Communities. “I must thank all of our amazing associates for their dedication to providing outstanding care and maintaining exceptionally well-kept buildings; and adhering to our mission of fostering active bodies, engaged minds and fulfilled spirits in the residents we serve.”

U.S. News & World Report is the global leader in quality rankings that empower consumers, business leaders and policy officials to make better, more informed decisions about important issues affecting their lives and communities. For the Best Senior Living list, nearly 200,000 individual survey responses were analyzed, identifying 1,272 communities across the continental U.S. and Hawaii that excel in independent living, assisted living and/or memory care.

"Families have limited information when comparing providers of independent living, assisted living, memory care or continuing care," said Ben Harder, managing editor and chief of health analysis at U.S. News. "The Best Senior Living ratings help to fill this informational gap with comprehensive and transparent data to help older consumers and their families identify high-quality senior living communities that meet their needs and preferences."
