Market Analysis and Insights Global Dyes and Pigments Market

Dyes and pigments are known to be substances that are utilized to impart color to a material. The term colorant is frequently applied for both dyes which are also known to be dyestuffs and pigments. The main difference between dyes and pigments is particle size. Dyes are much finer than pigments. Pigments and dyes are known to be the key raw materials for several end-user industries, such as paint and textile, coating, and plastic.

Major factors that are expected to boost the growth of the dyes and pigments market in the forecast period are the rise in the attention on technical services and the growing significance of product innovation and research and development. Furthermore, the growing per capita consumption of dyes and pigments in developing economies is further anticipated to propel the growth of the dyes and pigments market. Moreover, the change in the manufacturing facilities in the advancing countries is further estimated to cushion the growth of the dyes and pigments market. On the other hand, the growing environmental regulations are further projected to impede the growth of the dyes and pigments market in the timeline period.
