“It was important for us to expand our leadership with someone who has a strong compliance background that understands the complexities of a rapidly evolving cannabis market. We look forward to having Sam at the helm to further our steadfast commitment to excellence through timely and reliable testing with transparent results,” said Cardot.

“I couldn’t be more excited about the challenge ahead and humbled by the opportunity to build on the incredible work that Jeff has accomplished,” Richard said. “As Arizona’s cannabis industry continues to grow exponentially, protecting the health and safety of consumers via trusted and reliable compliance testing remains job number one.”

OnPoint Labs is ISO accredited, and ADHS certified and recently concluded its biannual audit and site inspection, which affirmed the operation remains in good standing. The Company will continue to work with regulators, industry, and policymakers to ensure that Arizona’s cannabis testing program remains the benchmark of excellence.
