Award solidifies Bellus as premier contract manufacturer for skincare, hair care and personal care products

POMPTON PLAINS, NEW JERSEY, UNITED STATES, May 27, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Innovative Bellus All Natural Labs today announced it has garnered yet another award, having been recognized as a 2022 Top Manufacturing Influencer by ROI-NJ. The accolade builds on the success of their recent win of Manufacturer of The Year, 2021 by NJMEP and places the company on the same level as some of the top manufacturing entities in the world.

With more than 400 clients to date, Bellus Labs is known as a leader in manufacturing. The company supports and contributes to its clients' strategy and tactics for new product development and marketing efforts. And the 2022 Top Manufacturing Influencer Award now places Bellus among the likes of other winners like Johnson & Johnson, Bristol Myers Squibb, Merck and Campbells.

"I am truly honored to be leading the ship during these successful times. This award was a direct result of all the hard work my team has put in. I also want to thank co-founder Michael Cimo for our highly effective business strategy. His knowledge in operations, marketing and sales has led to triple digit growth year over year," said Kristina Cimo, the CEO and Head of Product Development for Bellus All Natural Labs.

She added, "We have established our reputation by putting our clients first and by offering unique, quality products within the contract manufacturing & private label sectors. Our status among competitors is second to none. Our specialty in skincare, hair care and personal care products puts us in the forefront as manufacturer of choice for companies that want the best support, quality and trusted oversight in the industry."
