The industrial robots market consists of sales of robotic products and related services for the performance of a specific task. A robot is a programmable, mechanical device generally used in place of a person to perform dangerous or repetitive tasks with a high degree of accuracy. A robot has its control system and is not controlled by a machine.

Global Industrial Robots Market Trends

Automated mobile robots (AMR) is one of the recent trends of the industrial robots market. AMR is a robot that is designed to move materials across a plant floor or through a warehouse without the aid and direction of a human worker. Floor cleaners, forklifts, pallet movers are examples of types of AMRs. For instance, Fetch Robotics, a California-based firm handles heavy loads in its warehouse by using AMR. Fetch Robotics cloud computing program enables an operator to scale and control all operations with the click of a button. It eliminates employee risk for injury and increases the efficiency of their overall operations.

Global Industrial Robots Market Segments

The global industrial robots market is segmented:

By Product Type: Articulated Robots, Linear Robots, Cylindrical Robots, Parallel Robots, Scara

Robots, Others

By End-User Industry: Automative, Electrical and Electronics, Healthcare and Pharmaceuticals, Food and Beverages, Rubber and Plastics, Metals and Machinery, Others

By Application: Pick and Plane, Wielding and Soldering, Material Handling, Assembling, Cutting and Processing, Others

By Geography: The global industrial robots market report is segmented into North America, South America, Asia-Pacific, Eastern Europe, Western Europe, Middle East and Africa. Among these regions, Asia Pacific accounts for the largest share.
