Mitchel Zelman Scholarship Helps With the Rising Costs of College

There is no denying that a college degree is still valuable in today's job market. A resume with a higher education section shows that the potential candidate has the knowledge and expertise within the industry. This is why it is crucial to get a degree that will prove one's worth in the career field.

Unfortunately, many desire but do not have the financial help to complete a college degree. Some other factors that hinder students are personal and family crises that eventually affect their resources to finish college. A sick family member, loss of a job, or financial stress can destabilize one's priorities.

Mitchel Jason Zelman and His Scholarship Program

As a successful CEO, insurance broker, and philanthropist by heart, Mitchel Jason Zelman understands the obstacles and challenges college students are facing during this time of uncertainty. He recognizes that many individuals may have the desire to obtain a higher education degree but do not have the financial means to do so.

Being fortunate enough to study beyond high school, Mitchel Zelman is grateful for the opportunities he had that he attributes to having a college degree:

“My college degree helped me follow my dreams of working in business and risk management. I wanted to find a way to give back. What better way than investing in the next generation,” said Zelman.

Thus, Mitchel Zelman created an annual scholarship program that can help offset the expenses for college students in financial need.
