On June 6th, attendees will connect with security researcher David Colombo aka Tesla hacker. Colombo made a special trip from Germany to speak to cybersecurity executives at this private session.

During this cybersecurity peer discussion, guests will hear from the 19-year-old tech genius who baffled Tesla and the world when he successfully hacked dozens of their vehicles worldwide. The breach garnered international attention and concern. Colombo will discuss how this was possible and his thoughts to global enterprises on how to prevent breaches like this in future.

Later in the evening, attendees engage in Q and A with the founders of industry titans Noname Security, Wiz, and Legit Security. These leaders will explain what inspired them to start their companies, how they were able to achieve unicorn status coming out of stealth, and how they are able to attract top cybersecurity talent in such a competitive market.

The invitation-only event will be held Monday, June 6th, at the Fairmount Heritage Place in Ghiradelli Square from 4 pm -7 pm. Networking and Cocktails from 4 pm – 5 pm, followed by David Colombo at 5 pm, rounding out the event with the emerging tech titans at 6 pm. The exclusive list of participants includes CISOs, CIOs, Principal Security Architects, and more.
