He explained this in detail to the students. Several foreign universities want to establish campuses in India and offer their programs to Indian students. Therefore, the UGC has formed a committee to draw up regulations to allow this to happen. It aims to facilitate the establishment of top-class global educational institutions & universities in India, focusing in particular on emerging fields such as Artificial Intelligence (AI), data science, etc. The universities that fall under the list of top 500 global universities are only eligible to operate in India. A major contribution to the growth of Indian education is expected to come from the University of the United States of America (USA). Various universities, including those in California, have developed UG exchange programs with the Indian Institutes of Technology (IITs) and the Indian Institutes of Management (IIMs).

During the event, Dr. Prakash Bhosale expressed his belief that it will help students in India to have access to a world-class education. Collaboration with foreign counterparts would benefit top Indian educational institutions if these efforts succeed. For higher education and a degree of reputation, parents and students should choose UGC-approved international universities.
