These recognitions reflect the team's commitment to periodically providing timely and quality forecasts that allow us to provide relevant information to our clients and end-users on the challenging macroeconomic environment in our region.

"It is an honor to receive this valuable recognition for the work that the Torino Economics team has been doing in recent years, especially at a time of significant uncertainty that has pushed the predictive capacity of analysts at a global level to the limit and forces us to constantly rethink our assumptions about the course of events," said Fabiano Borsato, Head of the Economic Research Team, after hearing the news about the awards.

"I'm really pleased to note that our Economic Research Team has won 6 awards in the Focus Economics 2022 Analyst Forecast Awards. I'm incredibly proud of our team for their hard work and insight," said Victor Sierra, Torino Capital's CEO, after learning about the achievements.
