Nick Caster & Dani Felt

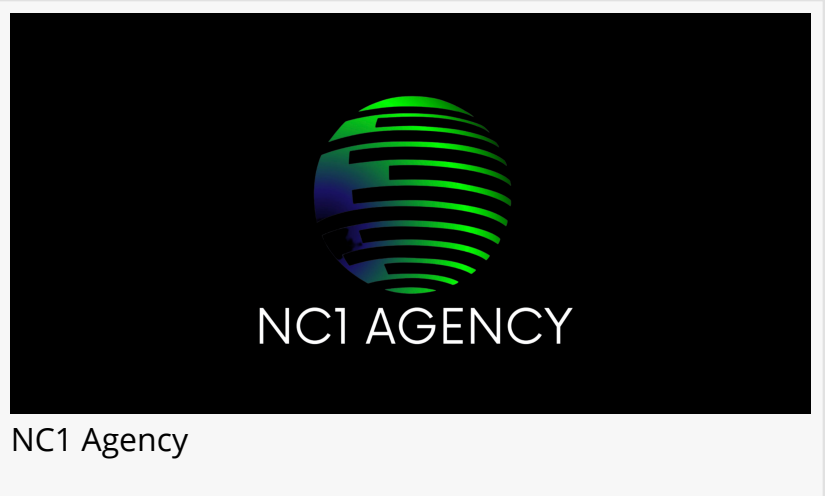

Widely acknowledged for his visionary flair, highly renowned American businessman Nick Caster has been creating significant waves in the industry. On a mission to catapult dreamers to the summits of their respective trades, he addressed himself to the challenge of creating a brand that focuses on the creation and development of emerging markets in renewable energy, custom military fabrication, B2B/B2C products, and steel structures. Armed with an effective growth strategy, he has successfully positioned his company NC1 Services along with some of the world's biggest brands, helping them reach even more impressive heights.

NC1 Services has met the growth needs S.A.F.E. Structure Designs, Tesla, Universal Music Group, Live Nation, and many more. On top of that, the company also offers SEO consulting, social media services, Google P.P.C., content creation, and video production. According to the founder, he is one of the foremost advocates of the value of result-driven and data driven marketing. For this reason, he works tirelessly to bring out the best in his team and exceed the expectations of his clients.

As someone who has always been passionate about helping people get ahead, Nick Caster knew that he was meant to use his entrepreneurial prowess to facilitate success for others. This luminary is a former producer and songwriter who now specializes in selective artist development. Through the years, he has been at the receiving end of numerous accolades. His long list of accomplishments as an artist includes having multiple Billboard & iTunes Top 10 placements in rock, electronic, pop and Christian music. He has also served as a ghostwriter and sits on the board of directors for the House Music Awards set to launch in Nashville in 2023.

Together with his business partner, Dani Felt, Nick Caster was able to establish NC1 Agency as an authority for industry-leading creative strategies for the development of emerging markets. The agency was formed in Nashville and is known for specializing in advanced digital marketing and Web3 development. At its core, the company aims to support and help grow women-owned businesses and women who have the potential to become some of the world's greatest leaders.
