ABOUT

Trapula Ase' has been involved with music from the tender age of eight to ten years old. Some musical teachers had left a huge musical imprint on the artist's minds by showcasing the true hold of music on the person. While young Trapula Ase' had little knowledge of musical tunes, he kept moving his head around to the combinations that attracted him the most.

It wasn't until the right grade that Trapula Ase' truly found the music style that was in sync with his taste: rap. Discovering and understanding this new form of musical style gave the young musician goosebumps and still does to this day. From here on the singer acquired a program to help create beats and a microphone to record vocals to help record some of the original music that he developed.

Since the songwriter's retirement from the marines he has been locked in one entrepreneurial journey to another, building skills on top of skills. Whether it is majoring in media studies and audio production or producing original music, Trapula Ase' has done it all!
