During her tenure as a former executive director, Mrs. Baptiste experienced first-hand the gaps in the consulting industry. The birthing of her own firm, DAC, allows her to bridge that gap. As a nonprofit professional and philanthropist, Tauna really cares about giving back. She and her dedicated team are committed to building stronger communities where they work and serve. Mrs. Baptiste states, “Because of this commitment, we donate a minimum of 10% of all revenue, not just profit, back into organizations across the nation.” Assisting clients to reach their goals is their passion.

DAC offers women’s leadership classes to help them thrive in business and have the financial backing they need to do more, and consistently hit the mark. Mrs. Baptiste’s most recent project, Next Woman Up: Leadership Program, is for women in the nonprofit sector who want to advance their careers and grow their leadership. Next Woman Up (NWU) provides training courses, coaching, and community for women who are "Next Up."

The 12-week course is a combination of live coaching and recorded content, delivered in 6 easy-to-follow modules. The course covers topics including personal leadership style, goal setting with intention, personal branding, and resume positioning, and much more. Vanessa S. is one of the many clients that have benefitted from Mrs. Baptiste's tutelage and states, "Tauna has truly helped me have the confidence in myself, and after ONE session, I landed the job!"
