searchable on their platform.

The company has over 100,000,000 million records available, adding 1,000,000 records per month of fresh data. The data includes names, job titles, emails, phone numbers (mobile and office), locations, industry, company name, company size, as well as other categories that are

“If you're looking for data and an ability to get to decision makers, then AccountSend is the platform to use. Our easy interface makes it simple to find anyone from C-Levels to small business owners to using it for recruiting and everything in between. Our data is amazing,” said Jonathan Bomser, Co-Founder of AccountSend.

AccountSend re-verifies all of the data on a monthly basis to ensure the most accurate information and lowest bounce rates in the industry from the emails provided. The data consists of any job title, location, company size, name, company and other data needed to fill the needs of any sales pipeline. In adding millions of new records per year a subscriber has the opportunity to consistently open new channels to market their product and services.

“Our main goal is to provide quality, double verified data that is usually not affordable and unreliable from other companies in the industry. Our data proves itself to be great for getting to the decision makers to help generate business for both large and small sales teams and companies looking for growth,” added Jon Bomser.

In the first week of beta testing, the company added 1,000 new subscribers and anticipates having over 10,000 subscribers within the first year of operations.
