That is what 'Friendship' is all about: the beauty of lifelong friendships that remain priceless, no matter how much time has passed.

"The film was inspired by a childhood friend I met in high school; regardless of our physical distance, we have been able to remain life long friends to this day," said Lin Tam, Director and Producer of 'Friendship'. "In addition to that inspiration, I've often heard how the film has played a role in people reconnecting with friends that they may have lost touch with over the years. I knew once this film was made it had the potential to heal and extend a lifeline of friendship to draw people out of loneliness and depression. After all, our friends are an extension of our family that we care for and love."

She added, "The response we have received so far from audiences has been nothing short of heartwarming, which makes me hope that there is more in store for 'Friendship'. Considering the richness of these characters and the depth of their environment, this short has the potential to reach many more lives, perhaps through a medium such as a TV show."
