The outsourcing organizations control the safety and efficacy of the products and ensure that these are safe for consumption. These services are required for clinical trial and patent application, regulatory writing & publishing, product registration, and legal representation. Pharmaceutical organizations also opt for these services to seek speedy government approvals in various regions.

Increase in Pharmaceutical and Biotechnological Industries Globally

The growth of pharmaceutical and biotechnological industries across the globe is a key factor boosting the global regulatory affairs outsourcing market. Moreover, rise in focus of pharmaceutical organizations on expanding their operations and supplies in emerging economies propels the global market. Outsourcing regulatory affairs aids in minimizing the costs associated with managing in-house resources, such as facilities, training, technology, specialized knowledge, and geographic regulations.
