Bill Woolf, Col. USAF (ret.) SFA president and founder, remarked, “Mr. Geyer is a long-time supporter of our defense culture and the men and women in the armed services. He brings a broad base of knowledge and expertise to the SFA Board. We look forward to working with Kenneth and are grateful for his support of the SFA.”

Kenneth Geyer has always focused on defense technology, from virtual reality systems to the rapid proliferation of commercial drones and a need for counter unmanned systems. Mr. Geyer’s focus is to provide advanced products that provide customers with tools to achieve their goals. He has successfully launched multiple companies within the Aerospace and military industry that primarily focused on cutting-edge technologies and bringing these products to market.

As a small business, Liteye has strategically aligned with key partners and continually brings new and cutting-edge solutions to the market. Liteye's Counter Unmanned Defense systems are deployed with the U.S. Air Force and the U.S. Army in eight countries that defend lives & critical infrastructure from enemy drones.

"Liteye has focused on launch protection, to ensure we can get assets into space without rogue operators interfering with operations. We are proud to be one of the founding supporters of the Space Force Association and their commitment to our U.S. Guardians," said Kenneth Geyer, CEO of Liteye Systems. "I'm honored to be working with SFA as a small business in the defense industry."

Liteye Systems started in Colorado 20 years ago with a vision that today has expanded to 80k sq. feet of manufacturing space and 50 employees who are mission-driven to develop and produce products that help American warfighters all over the world.
