

CUBIX and SECOND WORLD Enter Partnership to Build New NFT Game

WEST PALM BEACH, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, June 28, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Cubix has partnered with Second World to build a blockchain and NFT-based play-to-earn game. A veteran of blockchain and NFT game development, and a producer of exceptional games, such as MicroPets, MiniPets, Wagmi, Track9, and so on, Cubix stands as one of the leading and most trusted brands for high-tech and revolutionary game building.

Second World – A blend of Metaverse, Blockchain, and NFTs

Second World's game theme is stirring. It emulates real-world locations and allows players to invade, buy, build, and trade for high profitability. The game's visual effects mimic real-world locations for heightened effects and a fun-filled gameplay model. The game is being built on a blockchain platform, and its digital art, known as an NFTs, will captivate crypto enthusiasts and players for varied monetary value.

Infinite NFT Building Prospects

Second World depicts a real-world setting that allows players to develop their own cities and add high value to them for increased returns on the NFT marketplace. As players level up, high-end building tools will be attainable for better art center contracts in the city they own. In addition, the spaces that may be occupied or owned include countries or continents, and these may be at any location in the Second World.

Play-to-Earn – SWIO

For your potent endeavors in the Second World, you'll achieve in-game rewards known as SWIO. The SWIO is another addition to the cryptocurrency domain that has real-world value. The city you build has actual worth based on its SWIO value in the crypto marketplace. SWIO is the backbone of all that you do in this game, and the earnings are further exchangeable with other cryptos.

The whole game economy is primarily based on SWIO outlay. To survive or conquer, you need SWIO in your crypto wallet.

You can purchase this currency online with a credit card. Both, locations and buildings have a cost (in SWIO) that you need to pay in order to own them. However, once you own them, you can redevelop them for high profitability for more SWIO units.
