your house as-is," Augusta Home Buyers further wrote on their website.

When asked if they choose a house based on its condition, May said it is not the case.

"No matter how ugly or pretty the property is and no matter the location, we buy it in any condition," May explained.

May further explained that when a homeowner sells their house to Augusta Home Buyers, there are only four steps to follow:

First, the homeowners should tell Augusta Home Buyers about their property.

Second, if the property meets Augusta Home Buyers' buying criteria, they will contact the homeowner to set up a quick appointment.

Third, Augusta Homeowners would present a fair, all-cash offer to the homeowner or discuss the best method to proceed.

And fourth, the deal will be closed at a local title company, and the homeowner can receive the cash payment in as short as seven days.

May said that once they get the homeowner's property information, they usually make a fair all-cash offer within 24 hours.

"From there, we can close as quickly as seven days or on the homeowner's preferred schedule," May revealed.
