17, 2022 — To Be More Like You, a faith-driven stage play that grips the heart, challenges the mind, and impacts the soul is coming to The Leshler Center for the Arts in Walnut Creek, CA on July 16th - 17th. The play, co-written by national singer/songwriter Shelene Huey-Booker and Dry Bar Comedy's Michelle "Chelle T" Turner, both Bay Area natives, explores the narrative of Joshua Sullivan, an impressionable young man, navigating through a modern world with a mindset that many would consider outdated and unrealistic. His story of faith rises above what his peers could ever ask or think, and leads him to operate with unimaginable patience, hope, and peace. His commitment to showing unconditional love to those around him alters the lives of his loved ones and strangers alike, in ways they could have never expected. Fusing together the musical elements of gospel, hip-hop, classical, and more, To Be More Like You is a family-friendly production that's sure to entertain, empower, and enlighten! This production will also have cameo appearances by national recording artist Apostle Psalmist Raine and world renowned Evangelist Mike Servin.

Tickets can be purchased from the Leshler Center for the Arts box office, and the production website at www.tobemorelikeyou.com. The show times are July 16th at 2PM and 8PM Pacific, and a matinee performance July 17th at 4PM Pacific.

The stage play will also feature a Q+A Session with the cast and production crew after the July 16th 2PM show. This will be an opportunity for viewers, particularly young adults and youth, to ask questions about the play itself, the story, acting and writing choices and some other areas of interest as time allows. Youth groups, churches, group homes, and youth organizations from all over the Bay Area, San Francisco, Sacramento, San Jose, and Central Valley are all encouraged to attend, as any organization that brings 10+ youth will be entered into a drawing for a $500.00 cash prize.
