effort, or something focused on the retail consumer, Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing can help.

The Start Of Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing

Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing first sprung from an idea from its founder, a disabled veteran. The responsibilities of military duty had been seen to completion, so it was decided to switch gears from national defense to economic growth. The growth would come from helping businesses to find more of the clients or customers that formed the basis of healthy expansion. A start-up was created to pursue this goal, and today, the company proudly boasts staff with over 50 years of combined experience in the marketing industry.

Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing made its foray into the marketing sector just before a major shift. The traditional marketing platforms were secure in their dominance, but digital had already appeared, and those with foresight knew it would have a big impact. The company's main interest was in direct mail marketing, which had the fortunate side-effect of ingraining crucial skills for data acquisition, management, and analytics. Then, when it was obvious digital was going to become a major factor, Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing's data-driven expertise gave it an early mover advantage. It added digital marketing to its repertoire leading to significant gains for itself and its clients.

Today, Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing stretched its reach well past the initial service range of only the hometown of Las Vegas, Nevada. The entire United States is now covered, including Alaska and Hawaii. The rest of the continent is also serviced, with databases for the markets in Canada and Mexico. Even international ambitions can be satisfied, crossing the Atlantic and entering European Union markets such as France.

There's Always A Crisis

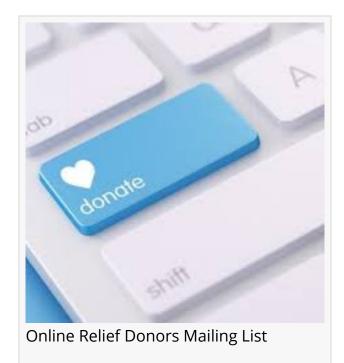

Regardless of how peaceful and seemingly under control things are in one part of the world, that is never true for all parts of the world. Even in the United States, a calm, peaceful day in Maine can still mean torrential storms and flooding in New Orleans, or just another quiet day in Idaho occurs while forests are burning in California.

Disasters are large-scale events that affect a huge number of people simultaneously. Even with sound finances, money in a bank account doesn't help with the immediate crisis of a home destroyed in a disaster or where to get food when even the shops are destroyed. This is where emergency and disaster relief play an important role, helping people stabilize so they can get back on their feet in the wake of disaster.

Opportunities For Different Interests

The people who donate to emergency and disaster relief are largely tied together by a common interest in helping people weather a crisis so they can recover and resume their normal lives. However, donors' interests vary greatly depending on their specific focus areas. Some donors are more specifically concerned about helping children during disasters, while others may be thinking about the senior citizens who often need much more physical assistance than others.

This opens up many possibilities for charities, businesses, and other organizations. Some donors, for example, may be more interested in donations, or even business investments in construction, helping to rebuild damaged homes and other buildings. Other donors may focus more on food and beverage-related donations or business. It's a large, diverse mix of interests.

Reaching Emergency Disaster Donors

Sprint Data Solutions Worldwide Marketing has comprehensive lists of emergency disaster donors across the USA. Nationwide lists are available, but these can also be narrowed to specific regions, like only the New England area. Single states are also possible, such as only New Jersey. At the same time, it's also possible to narrow things down to a single neighborhood in a city or town, such as only targeting emergency disaster donors in Beverly Hills, Los Angeles.

Donors can also be categorized demographically. There may be an interest in reaching out to a specific ethnicity, such as Latinx donors, or by a particular faith, such as primarily protestant donors. If there's a need, donors can even be categorized by finances, such as only wanting to reach high net worth individuals that have donated to emergency disaster causes.

Contact details can be provided in multiple formats. Physical mailing addresses are the standard for direct mail needs. For digital marketing, email addresses are given on request. If there's a telemarketing drive, home telephone numbers are available. Cellular numbers are available on request for SMS/Text based marketing campaigns.

Some clients may want to manage a direct mail campaign but lack experience. Special turnkey direct mail solutions are available to address this. This is a step-by-step process with guidance through a direct mail campaign, from concept and design of materials to manufacturing and printing those materials, and finally distribution with the request databases. It all happens under one roof.
