

Fourth of July: “Support a Government Designed for All the People,” Says The Way to Happiness Guide to Better Living

The Way to Happiness offers sound advice including “Support a government designed and run for all the people” and also how to achieve that – and stay happy.

WASHINGTON, DC, USA, June 30, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- On the Fourth of July, Americans are reminded that the country was founded by patriots willing to fight for freedom. The American experiment was intended to support all the people and to give people a voice in their government, but it requires participation to make the ideal a fact.

So, with the Fourth of July upon us soon, The Way to Happiness

Foundation is urging Americans to take advantage of its free The Way to Happiness booklet and educator kits to help teach children and adults about the importance of civic engagement in one’s happiness. The kits are available at:

The Way to Happiness booklet includes in its 21 precepts (advice or rules of conduct): “Support a government designed and run for all the people.”

“The whole subject of ‘government’ and how to govern can be quite precise, almost a technical science,” the booklet advises. “If one is interested in having a better government, one that does not cause trouble, one should suggest it be taught at earlier ages in schools; one can also read up on it: it is not a very difficult subject if you look up the big words.”
