

SiZZmic Transmedia Hits the Billion-Dollar Metaverse Market in an Uber Family-Friendly Earth Shattering Way

SiZZmic Transmedia launches into the metaverse as a family-friendly content creator focusing on three areas: education, esports, and entertainment.

CLEARWATER, FL, UNITED STATES, July 1, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- SiZZmic Transmedia, founded by Start-Up Entrepreneur Robert Lanteigne, announces its launch into the metaverse as a family-friendly content creator in three main categories: education, esports, and entertainment. This content will be available in their multi-floor multi-user virtual building named GoBeOn. GoBeOn will have course rooms, gaming areas, shops, studios, meeting spaces, galleries, an auditorium, a rooftop deck, and much more.

“SiZZmic” is a play on the word seismic meaning earth-shattering, and “Transmedia” in their name means storytelling across many platforms. As the name suggests, they are scheduling and producing courses, events, and concerts in the physical world and they will tell the story of each one utilizing many platforms. As well, each event and NFTs will be available on the metaverse.

“I saw my son and his friends consumed with computer games and gaming consoles and I was concerned for them and their future. Rather than waiting for someone else to do something to make it better for my son, I decided to do something about it myself. From this, SiZZmic Transmedia was born,” said Founder Robert Lanteigne.

According to the CDC, the average child age 8-18 spends seven and a half hours in front of a screen (phone, TV, or computer) each day just for entertainment, of which a whopping four and a half are spent watching TV.

“We are creating a distinctive family-friendly metaverse where children can only engage in age-appropriate content, kids and grandparents can interact and play together even from a great distance, and anyone can play and interact together in a safe and secure way. And as an artist myself, I also wanted to create an active environment in the Metaverse for artists to be on and continue creating,” continued Lanteigne.

Their GoBeOn building will be a home for artists, creators, entertainers, educators, gamers, shop owners, businesses, families, and more. Currently, the company is mass recruiting artists, gamers, courses, and businesses who want to be in the metaverse. They are also hiring executives and staff as the company is rapidly expanding.

SiZZmic Transmedia is also a proud sponsor of the Lawrence Anthony Earth Organization,” BECAUSE NONE SURVIVE ALONE.” “We support their dedication to improving environmental conditions in order to enhance the health and future of all life,” said Lanteigne.
