

We Level Up to Launch New Veterans Residential Addiction Treatment Program

The veterans substance abuse treatment model is based on successful treatment for co-occurring disorders that have been found to be common in veterans

DEERFIELD BEACH, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, July 1, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The WeLevelUp

It's an exciting time to be a family of a veteran in need of We Level Up's trauma and related mental health services. With our evidence based practices and faithfulness to quality"

Alexandra Krotkevich, We Level Up treatment centers network CEO treatment center network is pleased to announce that it will soon provide residential care for veterans with drug and alcohol addiction, as well mental health disorders. As one of the few programs providing multiple simultaneous evidence-based interventions using science based models, the We Level Up treatment program shall excel in helping military personnel who have not been able obtain long term recovery after prior treatments. Reflecting on this Alexandra Krotkevich, We Level Up treatment centers network CEO said "Our integrated approach seeks to treat both physical ailments alongside psychological problems as well as general wellness." In doing so, patients can look at addressing all aspects of their disorders, rather than just focusing solely on a single disorder without integrated treatment modalities.

Co-Occurring Disorders Treatment Programs

The We Level Up veterans substance abuse treatment model is based on successful treatment for co-occurring disorders that have been found to be common in veterans with cannabis use disorder or thought and mood problems. Many are commonly diagnosed simultaneously, often experiencing multiple hospitalizations before being accepted into a program like this one. However once veterans join, integrating their therapies for all disorders, all together as one whole treatment plan can really help many vets turn the corner.

"It's an exciting time to be a family of a veteran in need of We Level Up's trauma and related mental health services. With our evidence based practices and faithfulness to quality, we're committed to sustainable long term treatment," said Alexandra Krotkevich, We Level Up treatment centers network CEO.

We Level Up is an accredited network, founded to support the long-term recovery of adults and their families that experience co-occurring mental illness and substance use disorders. The network provides both residential treatment and SUD treatment using evidence-based practices that have been proven to work. The integrated treatment model addresses multiple disorders concurrently, under the same roof quite often and by the same team. Clinical teams embraces families throughout the process, helping them to learn, communicate and become trusting partners in the recovery process.
