"As email marketers struggle more and more with inbox delivery we engineered a system that is second to none with its email verification and validation. Our goal was to create the most accurate platform online to ensure the data is cleaned and valid," said Jonathan Bomser, Co-Founder of CoolValidator.

The company created the platform to be the best in the industry by learning from all of the mistakes made by other competitors and creating a more robust experience with higher accuracy and reporting. The platform checks for the following 8 vital email validations: SMTP Ping Verification, Check existence of SMTP server for domain, Check existence of working mailbox, where accessible, MX Record Validation, Check for improbable names (vulgar, famous, bogus, or suspicious keystroke sequences), Check mail exchange record of domain is valid and accepting mail, Verify that individual domain specific mailbox rules are met, Check email address syntax and errors.

CoolValidator offers monthly and credit based solutions for every budget starting at $5. This

"I was a user of many of our competitors for verification only to find that they were sub-par. My goal was to create the ultimate email verification platform that was affordable with a very high accuracy percentage," added Jon Bomser.

In the first month of beta testing, the company added 200 new subscribers and anticipates having over 10,000 subscribers within the first year of operations.
