are making in their financial planning." He shared that the biggest mistake he sees people making is not starting to plan early enough. He emphasized the importance of taking control of one's financial future and seeking professional advice to ensure long-term success.

making when it comes to their finances,” Mr. Pellegrino explained:

“One of the biggest mistakes I see people making is failing to plan for retirement. Too many people think they can just “wing it” and everything will work out okay, but that’s simply not the case. Retirement planning is complex, and there are a lot of moving parts. You need to take into account things like Social Security, Medicare, and inflation. Without a plan, it’s easy to fall behind and end up facing financial hardship in retirement. Another big mistake I see people making is not diversifying their investments. With the recent volatility in the stock market, we’ve seen a lot of people get burned by having all their eggs in one basket. It’s important to diversify your investments across different asset classes and sectors to mitigate risk and protect your portfolio from market fluctuations.”
