As a young man, Williams learned the hard way with what works and what doesn't in developing an entrepreneurial venture. Williams launched six different failed online businesses and spent $140,000 on online courses, before he got the correct information and got it right.

After his failings, Williams worked on the inside of a successful online business and saw the backend of how a multi-million-dollar company operated. Using his insider knowledge, Williams has since launched several successful ventures for himself and countless for his clients.

The Online Millionaire sets out to share the same back-end experience that prepared Williams for his first success, and the other secrets of industry success he's honed on the way.

"I realized people needed to learn how to start online businesses and learn how to do it properly, not just to have a good idea," he says. "They just didn't know how to make it work, the exact same position I was in before finding success. So, I literally took everything that I learned, and I put it into a step-by-step process. Since then, the six step success system I share has been proven to work by hundreds of my clients worldwide."

COVID-19 brought forth a so-called Great Resignation with unhappy employees leaving their jobs at unprecedented rates. Many sought career changes due to financial dissatisfaction, quality of life hang-ups, and work/life balance frustration. Many of those leaving their boring 9 to 5s dreamt of becoming online entrepreneurs - but didn't know how to make it happen.

Williams supposes there are thousands upon thousands, perhaps millions, trying and failing to get an online business off the ground. When Williams was starting out, he spent $140,000 on business courses online, he learned a lot but there was always something missing.

"A lot of the information I was getting from these people's courses were good; I probably had about a million dollars of information, but it wasn't enough to show me how to put the pieces together. And nothing ever works perfectly the first time in entrepreneurship, so you need a company or someone who knows how to do what you want to accomplish and when it doesn't work perfectly the first time you can go to them and say, 'I got this piece of information, I applied it, it didn't work perfectly so what did I do wrong and what do I need to do differently to make sure it works?' What I didn't realize at the time was that I was buying one piece of the puzzle at a bunch of different places without realizing there was 99 more that all needed to be interconnected," explains Williams.

"None of them showed you all the steps to success, how to put all the pieces together and stick with you every step of the way until it works."

The Online Millionaire takes you through his internationally renowned program called "The Six Step Success System: Six steps to a successful e-business."

The six steps are tried and tested in his business ventures and those of his many happy clients.

"The Online Millionaire gives people everything in one place," he adds. "It's proven information already from a business making a tonne of money. So, people are not taking a risk. The only risk they might be taking is that if they are not willing to follow what we say at the end of the day, the skies the limit with online businesses and owning your own business in general, the only limiting factor would be them."
