“To date, we have raised a whopping $12 million through funding alone for our clients,” says Orsini. “This is very humbling for us and our team, but it enables us to see our value and what we can bring to the market. “What’s more, we truly believe in giving back to our local communities as well,” Mohan says. “Being from India and knowing how food shortages are impacting citizens, we also plan to distribute food every month to the poorest cities, such as Jaipur, Kolkata, and Mumbai, through a new food distribution company we recently launched.
