SEATTLE, WA, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, July 11, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The iconic Space Needle is partnering with local Seattle based designer Luly Yang Design Group for new team member uniforms. Working to innovate the uniform industry towards elevating style, performance and pride, Luly Yang brings her experience in design, architecture, and her understanding of the human form, creating a one-of-a-kind Space Needle uniform collection.

“We are so pleased to bring Luly Yang’s beautiful and innovative designs to the Space Needle,” says Chief Marketing Officer Karen Olson. “The shapes and colors of the uniforms were thought out perfectly to represent the iconic Space Needle reimaged in a uniform. The Luly Yang brand champions our values of: innovation, engineering, and sustainability.”

The Space Needle uniform design was inspired by the iconic shape of the building’s silhouette. The garment’s seams, color blocks, textures, and reflective trims were designed to mirror architectural lines while also flattering the human body. The Space Needle’s brand was

Seattle-based architecture firm Olson Kundig, was awarded the American Institute of Architect's 2022 National Architecture Honor Award for their work on the Space Needle's $100M Century Project, which served as inspiration for the custom print, creating a sporty texture that adds dimension to the garments.
