

Sustaira and Axians Announce Partnership to Accelerate Sustainability Software Initiative

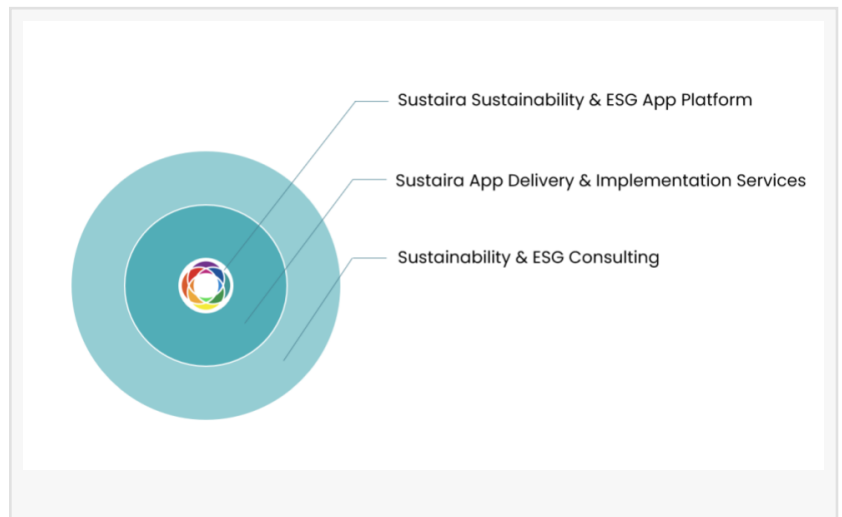

Sustainability software provider, Sustaira, announces a global partnership with technology company, Axians; a brand of VINCI Energies.

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS, UNITED STATES, July 14, 2022

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Today, Sustaira announces a new partnership with Axians, a brand of VINCI Energies.

Sustaira's Sustainability and ESG app platform offers a portfolio of customizable apps that will help companies in their sustainability and ESG journey. Axians has joined Sustaira's rapidly growing partner ecosystem to implement Sustaira's Sustainability platform and solutions. With a focus on extending and co-creating ESG solutions with Sustaira and customers globally.

Axians is a leading technology provider with presence in 27 countries and over 12,000 employees. Given Axians is part of the VINCI Group, a fortune 500 organization with over 210,000 employees in 119 countries, this partnership enables both organizations to quickly scale and accelerate the roll out of sustainability software initiatives. At Axians, working towards a more sustainable world has been a core element of business both internally and externally. Due to Axians understanding their customers' needs and their different expertise areas, including IoT and Business Applications, they help their customers save water in cities, reduce their fuel consumption and optimize the energy efficiency of their sites and buildings.

Sustaira is building a powerful and rapidly growing network of both technical and consulting partners. The company already formalized partnerships with Siemens Digital Industries Software and low-code application platform Mendix, and today welcomes Axians as well. With these partnerships, organizations can get a complete solution to guide them through their Sustainability journey.

"Businesses started their journey on digital transformation", says Edwin van Merriënboer, director at Axians. "This is needed for many reasons. First of all to be relevant nowadays and in the future. But most of all: it'll enable businesses to drive innovation. Sustainability is a huge part of this journey. At Axians, our employees are personally driven to create a better and more sustainable world. For themselves, but also for the generations to come. Sustaira will enable us as a company to drive our sustainability goals, but more importantly: will help our customers with their journey to become more digital and sustainable."

Sustaira's solutions and services are best described as layers. The core represents the Sustaira Sustainability App Platform and the ESG application templates within the platform itself. This then expands into Sustaira's app delivery and implementation services, which includes the ability to add certain customizations and feature functionality. Axians has the ability to lead app delivery and implementation services of Sustaira solutions. The final layer represents Sustaira's ESG and Sustainability Consulting services.

This partnership represents international growth for both organizations and presents a significant opportunity to better equip customers throughout their sustainability journeys. EMEA, including the Benelux and Nordics, is an important growth market, where local partners, such as Axians, can not only implement, but also customize and co-create Sustainability solutions with Sustaira.

As Vincent de la Mar, Founder and CEO at Sustaira, highlights: "At Sustaira, acceleration by enablement is one of our core values and this partnership with Axians represents exactly that. We are laying the foundation for an impactful sustainability platform which proven and trusted partners can leverage globally for their customers. A unique and pragmatic approach within the Sustainability software industry that will ultimately lead to faster adoption and more success."
