A dental implant is a titanium screw that replaces a missing tooth root. When the bone heals, an abutment and crown are added for chewing and smiling capabilities. The treatment has a success rate of over 90%.

“There’s a misconception that dental implants are only for people over a certain age,” explains Dr. Matthew Lang, dentist in Bethlehem. “This isn’t the case. We have worked with patients from age 20 to 90.”

Dental implants can replace one or more missing teeth on the top or bottom arch. Their benefits extend beyond the cosmetics; they also help prevent jawbone shrinkage.
