

Move East Announces Its Specialty Routes to Long Distance Movers This Summer

NY Express has announced its specialty routes to clients looking to make a long-distance move this summer.

NEW YORK, NEW JERSEY, USA, July 20, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Express has announced its specialty routes to clients looking to make a long-distance move this summer. This moving company is looking to move more folks who are planning a summer move this year.

"Moving long distance can be a daunting process for anyone," said the group CEO of Move East. "That is why at Move East we have a curated list of specialty routes handled by a team of professional and experienced movers.

Our long-distance moving company understands the challenges associated with long-distance moves. And that is why we have taken them seriously. Moving during summer is a highly stressful time for a move given the popularity of this season for movers. We can claim to be the best movers New York City has to offer because we have learned to take the stress out of moving, no matter the season you choose to move in."

The most popular times that most folks choose to move are usually during summer or spring. This is thanks to the great weather as well as the holiday that allows most people to take time away from work. However, moving during such a peak season can be quite stressful as most moving companies are fully booked. Move East has enough manpower and facilitation to ensure that any moves from

Los Angeles or San Fransisco to New York and vice versa are well taken care of.
