The wheat protein market consists of sales of wheat protein products by entities (organisations, sole traders, partnerships) that are used for bread and noodle-making as it creates an elastic texture for achieving a high level of dough strength. Wheat protein isolate is a popular sports nutrition supplement among bodybuilders and strength-training athletes because of its high protein content, which may aid muscle building. In the cosmetic industry, it is also used as a supplement to enrich hairs in their hydrolyzed form.
