improvement.”

“The 40 Under 40 program honors dealership employees who display exceptional leadership skills and are top performers,” said Amy Wilson, retail editor of Automotive News. “The men and women on our 11th annual list have demonstrated significant business achievements, and their dealership groups are all the stronger for it.”

Automotive News received nominations from across the U.S. and identified outstanding performers in a large field of high-quality talent at dealerships. This year’s list represents a diverse group of honorees with a broad range of titles and backgrounds. The national publication profiled these bright stars in the July 11, 2022, issue of Automotive News, the leading news source for the global automotive industry.
