PeerSpot (formerly IT Central Station) is where enterprise tech decision makers go to read peer product reviews on Cybersecurity, DevOps and IT-related topics. Every reviewer on PeerSpot is verified to help buyers make well-informed, smart business decisions. CybeReady was recognized for its Autonomous Security Awareness Training Platform, designed for enterprise deployments.

According to CybeReady customers contributing reviews on PeerSpot:

"CybeReady is positively engaged with the way that it writes its training and messaging, which is really helpful. Therefore, people don't feel "got at," which is really important. Not only across the bank, but within my own team, they can see the effects of what simulated phishing can do. By using CybeReady, we have identified some issues in the bank, which we have corrected because of having CybeReady," said Ceri Goncalve Jones, Security Awareness Manager at NatWest Bank.

"CybeReady has this uncanny ability to fit its simulations to reality. The simulations that CybeReady prepares are refreshed on a monthly basis... They could be news-related, for example, related to COVID, or elections. They might be related to the time of the year, such as taxes or bonus payments and the like... It's evolving to what it's seeing out there, but in a good way," noted Dmitriy Sokolovskiy, VP and CSO/CISO at Avid Technology.

"We are using CybeReady because training on and awareness about security are among our main areas of focus for existing and, of course, for new employees. It's very important that we maintain our employees' awareness in this area as much as possible. That is the most important part," said Ricardo Rodrigues, Domain Head IT Governance & Security at DECO PROTESTE. "If our employees are really attentive to and aware of all the different types of possible threats from phishing emails, we believe we can avoid 50 percent of the potential attacks that we can suffer as a company."

CybeReady's fully-managed security training platform includes built-in expertise embedded into the SaaS-based solution. The platform operates 365 days a year, creating a continuous security culture through monthly (or more) engagements with each employee, elevating the security awareness practice to that of other security solutions that operate year-round. With security teams often overloaded today with a nearly insurmountable number of tasks, CybeReady eases the training burden by providing everything needed to expedite training.

"Our customer reviews reflect the high value provided by our AI platform," said Eitan Fogel, CybeReady's CEO. "We are honored to deliver an out-of-the-box cybersecurity awareness program that delivers the fastest ROI available today, and we hope to serve many more enterprises looking to mitigate cybersecurity risk immediately."
