VANCOUVER, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA, July 25, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Lil Durk ("LilDurk.com" or the "Company"), a Canadian news & technology company enhanced by A.I.-driven neural networks, announced today that they will be initiating the regulatory process of acquiring a highly established cannabis e-commerce business formally known as Budmail.

This acquisition marks the beginning of Lil Durk's expansion into the Canadian cannabis industry.

"We're expecting to have everything up and running by September, potentially sooner," said Alexander Elder, Founder and interim Chief Executive Officer at Lil Durk. "Ideally there will be a subscription based service to provide customers and medical patients with a system that gradually increases the quality of our cannabis products over time.", Mr. Elder continued.

Lil Durk is currently working on expanding by solidifying different streams of revenue in order to achieve their mission of providing clients with the highest quality and most affordable products and services in the cannabis sector.

Along with a subscription service, Lil Durk says it plans to invest into a new brand platform created to propel the best legacy brands into the legal market.

Budmail

Former legacy brand Budmail is forging the path for cannabis brands, growers, breeders, and entrepreneurs to enter the legal market. Following its own recent successful transition into the legal market, the creation of this brand platform allows both Lil Durk and Budmail to acquire other legacy brands and propel them to the forefront of the legal cannabis scene. Though the company continues to obliterate the premium products category in every aspect, Budmail recognizes it's going to likely take more than one company to build a solid platform the category can stand on.

About Lil Durk

Lil Durk is a news and technology company located in Toronto, Canada providing comprehensive, up-to-date news coverage, aggregated from sources all over the world by Lil Durk.

About Budmail

Budmail is redefining the approach to legacy cannabis dispensaries in Canada. Through unprecedented partnerships with legacy breeders, growers and cultivators, the Budmail core business model delivers to the legal market the very best in smaller batch, craft cannabis. Established in the legacy market to disrupt the current narrative, Budmail quickly garnished a massive following by setting the new standard of cannabis in Canada. Now in the legal market, the Budmail combines branded cannabis products and retail with the new frontier of technology to deliver arguably the most unique play in the cannabis sector.
