Cash logistics refers to a service provided by third-party organizations to financial institutions for managing the physical movement and storage of currency notes and other valuables. It primarily consists of ATM services, cash management, cash in transit, etc. Cash logistics ensures safe and secure transportation of cash, movement of bullion and coins, ATM replenishment and maintenance, and cash processing, including counting, sorting, packaging, counterfeit verification, etc. It also enables cost-effective and efficient branch-level supply chain automation. Consequently, cash logistics finds extensive application across numerous establishments, such as financial institutions, retailers, hospitality, government agencies, etc.

Covid-19 Impact:

We are regularly tracking the direct effect of COVID-19 on the market, along with the indirect influence of associated industries. These observations will be integrated into the report.

Global Cash Logistics Market Trends and Drivers:

The growing demand for an integrated platform that lowers the complication of cash management, on account of the elevating usage of bank services across countries, is primarily driving the cash logistics market. Furthermore, the emerging trend of automated branch operation is also positively influencing the market growth. Besides this, the inflating cash circulation levels and the increasing number of ATMs, owing to the expanding global population, are acting as significant growth-inducing factors. Apart from this, the development of banking facilities in remote areas and the escalating integration of advanced technologies in these services, including Business Intelligence (BI), cloud computing, Internet of Things (IoT), etc., are anticipated to stimulate the cash logistics market over the forecasted period.
