

INTERNATIONAL DRAG LEGEND LAGANJA ESTRANJA MADE OUTFEST DEBUT IN TWO BREAKOUT PROJECTS

The Season 6 Lip Sync Assassin Premiered Her Outfest Projects with the Webseries "Open to It" and the Feature Film "God Save the Queens"

LOS ANGELES, CA, USA, August 2, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Jay Jackson AKA Laganja Estranja, the undisputed queen of green and death defying stunts (see viral video HERE), made her Outfest debut with two projects. First up was the queer webseries Open to It by Frank Arthur Smith which screened on July 18, 2022 as part of Outfest's Fellas That Were in the Mood programming, followed by God Save the Queens by Jordan Danger which had its big premiere on July 22, 2022 with an exclusive live performance by Laganja Estranja.

In Open to It, Laganja plays "Lois Carmen Denominator", Drag Mother to lead actor Tim Wardell's Cam in the series, in a comedy exploring non-monogamy in the queer community. On the opposite end in dramedy God Save the Queens, Laganja introduces us to "Rita" who along with three other drag queens, peel back the layers in group therapy to unpack their trauma. Two strong showings from Laganja proving her chops in both comedic and dramatic acting.

Fresh off of her NYC Pride performance for the one and only Madonna, Laganja has been busy traveling around the globe on Voss Events' Werq the World tour. The tour just returned from Europe and is now hitting the North American leg with Laganja in tow. Up next, Laganja will be seen in upcoming tv projects, and is gearing up to launch her latest single "Daily Basis" with accompanying music video this fall.
