The hyaluronic acid-based dermal fillers market consists of sales of the hyaluronic acid-based dermal fillers by entities (organizations, sole traders, and partnerships), which refers to a form of dermal filler that is only used for a short period of time. Hyaluronic acid attracts water to the skin, making it more moisturized. It is used to treat shallow and fine wrinkles with Belotero and Restyling Silk, which prevents skin from aging.

Global Hyaluronic Acid-Based Dermal Fillers Market Trends

Technological advancements are shaping the hyaluronic acid-based dermal fillers market outlook. Major companies operating in the hyaluronic acid-based dermal fillers sector are focused on developing new technological solutions to strengthen their position in the hyaluronic acid-based dermal fillers market. For instance, in 2021, a new treatment called laser resurfacing treatments was introduced on the market, which is more efficient and less invasive, addressing multiple skin concerns. It uses lasers to solve all the skin problems at once, making them more appealing. Moreover, the treatment can also be used to cope with COVID-19 stress.
